Char Dham Yatra is a sacred pilgrimage in Hinduism, encompassing four revered shrines in the Indian Himalayas. The pilgrimage includes visits to Badrinath, Kedarnath, Gangotri, and Yamunotri, each holding significant religious importance. Badrinath is dedicated to Lord Vishnu, Kedarnath to Lord Shiva, Gangotri to the Ganges River, and Yamunotri to the Yamuna River. Undertaking the Char Dham Yatra is believed to cleanse the soul and pave the way for spiritual liberation. Pilgrims embark on this journey to seek blessings, purification, and salvation from the cycle of birth and death. The yatra involves arduous treks, symbolizing the challenging path to spiritual enlightenment, making it one of the holiest and most revered pilgrimages in Hindu tradition. Also known as 'four abodes', Chardham yatra is a spiritual experience that the followers of Hinduism yearn for.
